Jazz at Lincoln Center Media Ticket Policy

Jazz at Lincoln Center reserves a limited number of tickets for media use for concerts and events.

Journalists on assignment should contact Jazz at Lincoln Center's Public Relations office by email to request information or press tickets for concerts and events at least 48 hours in advance. While we do our best to fulfill all requests, please note that press tickets are limited and request fulfillment is not guaranteed. Distribution is at the discretion of public relations staff and subject to availability.

If your organization is requesting media tickets, please be aware of these important guidelines before proceeding:

- Concert and event coverage: journalists writing performance reviews may request complimentary tickets.
- Advance coverage: journalists who have written advance preview stories may also request complimentary tickets.
- Due to limited capacity and high demand, distribution may be limited to one ticket per journalist for sold out and other high demand concerts.
- For festivals and other special events, opening night tickets may be reserved for critics reviewing the performances for daily newspapers.
- Tickets will not be exchanged on the day of the performance.
- Late ticket requests will be subject to ticket availability.
- Jazz at Lincoln Center reserves the right not to issue tickets to a journalist if he/she requests more tickets than are allotted for his/her media organization, or fails to provide proof of assignment or coverage.

Media tickets are available for pick up at the Jazz at Lincoln Center Box Office up to two hours before show time on the day of the performance, unless otherwise specified.
